

Packard automobiles were owned – and loved – by people throughout the world. In addition to Bob Hope, Jean Harlow and Gary Cooper, some of the very well-known were: General MacArthur, Jack Benny, Clark Gable, Gene Krupa, July Garland, Franklin Roosevelt, Dwight Eisenhower, King Farouk, Generalissimo Chiang Kai Chek, and the Japanese Royal family.

Today, there are numerous personal and museum collections which feature Packards. Jay Leno has Packards in his collection. The Imperial Palace Casino in Las Vegas, NV, the Packard Museum in Warren, OH, the Blackhawk Museum in Danville, CA are just three of the numerous museums who value the Packards in their collections.
